The Old Clock on the Stairs.

Somewhat back from the village street,
Stands the old-fashioned country-seat:
Across its antique portico
Tall poplar trees their shadows throw:
And from its station, in the hall,
An ancient time-piece says to all:
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

Half-way up the stairs it stands,
And points and beckons with its hands,
From its case of massive oak,
Like a monk, who (under his cloak)
Crosses himself, and sighs, "Alas!"
With sorrowful voice to all who pass:
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

By day its voice is low and light;
But in the silent dead of night,
Distinct, as a passing footstep's fall,
It echoes along the vacant hall—
Along the ceiling—along the floor—
And seems to say at each chamber door:
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

In that mansion used to be
Free-hearted Hospitality;
His great fires by the chimney roared:
The stranger feasted at his board;
But, like the skeleton at the feast,
The warning time-piece ceased:
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

Three groups of merry children played;
Three youths and maidens, dreaming, strayed
O precious hours! O golden prime!
And influence of love and time!
Even as a miser counts his gold,
Those hours the precious time-piece told
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

From that chamber, clothed in white,
The bride came forth on her wedding night,
There, in that silent room, below,
The dead lay in its shroud of snow;
And in the hush that followed the prayer,
Was heard the old clock on the stair:
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

All are scattered now and fled:
Some are married—some are dead:
And when I ask, with throbs of pain,
"Ah! when shall they all meet again,
As in the days long since gone by?"
The ancient time-piece makes reply:
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

Never here—forever there—
Where all parting, pain, and care,
And death, and time, shall disappear—
Forever there—but never here!
The horologe of eternity
Sayeth this incessantly:
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

A RIGHTEOUS RETRIBUTION.

"Miriam Green, I am astonished!" said Aunt Jane.

"Oh, but, Aunt Jane, I couldn't help it!" said Miriam, laughing.

But, at the same time. she colored very red, and hung down her pretty head.

There was no denying this offense. It was patent to all the world—or, at least, to all that part of it who might happen to be on the edge of Raven Woods.

There was Miriam Green up in the top of the old oak tree, which reared its proud crest, an Absalom among its gold-leaved brethern, her curls all tangled, her apron filled with treasures of dark-green mistletoe. There was Aunt Jane, standing in the little, open clearing, with hands uplifted, eyes opened in the widest of disapproving glares, and sunbonnet fallen over backward on her shoulders.

"Your frock's all torn!" enunciated the old lady.

"I can easily mend it again."

"And your hair blown into a tangle."

"Oh, Aunt Jane, that is nothing!" pleaded Miriam.

But the old lady would listen to no argument.

"You were sixteen yesterday," said she. "You are old enough to know better. And you shall be made to know better! I will punish you for this piece of inexcusable hoydenism!"

Miriam's blue eyes grew big.

Surely Aunt Jane couldn't shake her, or shut her up in the garret with a page of "Watt's Hymns" to learn, or—worst alternative of all—put her on a short allowance of apple-pie at dinner.

For pretty Miriam was still child enough to regard any of these occurrences as a serious misfortune, and one greatly to be deprecated.

But while she was yet in the agonies of apprehension, the question was definitely determined by Aunt Jane's advancing to the foot of the oak-tree and pulling away the ladder that had served as a means to reach the first bough, a ragged mass of folliage some twenty feet up from the roots. Below that, the trunk extended down as perpendicular and free of side growth as a telegraph pole.

"There!" said Aunt Jane "since you were so anxious to climb the tree after mistletoe, you may remain there and think it over at your leisure. I will come back this evening and put back the ladder."

Miriam uttered a little cry.

"Please, Aunt Jane, don't go off!" she appealed, "I'll never do so any more. Please forgive me, just this once!"

But Aunt Jane was inexorable. With slow majesty, she strode out of the opening and was gone, even while Miriam's piteous voice quivered on the air.

There she sat perched on a horizontal bough, clinging to the taper-trunk of the tree, and swayed to and fro in the gentle October breezes. It had been a most fascinating position a few minutes ago; now it was frightful and perilous in the extremest degree.

Was it an hour was it ten? or possibly only fifteen minutes? Like the Prisoner of Chillion our poor little captive had lost all power of calculating time. But just as the round sun hung like a ball or ornage-flame above the western woods, there was the sound of quick footsteps crashing over fallen twigs and crisp autumn leaves below.

"It's John Ford coming home from hunting," Miriam said to herself, with a quick breath. "Oh, I do hope he won't see me!"

She shrunk close to the trunk of the tree, and tried to seem as much like a big bunch of mistletoes as possible. But it was useless. John Ford's keen eyes were too well used to woodcraft and all pertaining to it, to overlook her. He stopped short at the entrance to the glade.

"Miriam Green!" he exclaimed.

"Yes," said the girl, laughing a little hysterically. "Zaccheus he—"

"And I am Zaccheus, and now I can't get down."

"Oh!" said Mr. Ford. "The ladder fell, did it?"

"Y-yes," said Miriam, turning very red. "The ladder fell down."

"I'll put it up for you," said Ford.

"Do!" said Miriam, laughing to herself, as she thought of Aunt Jane.

He swung the ladder promptly up against the trunk of the tree.

"Now, it's all right," said he. "I'll just go over to see that the dogs haven't frightened Mrs. Morey's young turkeys, and wait for you outside the woods.

In five minutes Miriam Green was by his side, rosy and breathless, still clinging to her aprouful of mistletoe.

"Oh, I am so much obliged to you!" said she, earnestly.

"What will Aunt Jane say?" said Miriam, involuntarily.

"She'll be very much alarmed, won't she?"

"No," confessed Miriam. "She—that is—Oh, Mr. Ford, I can't deceive you about it!"

And she told him all.

"Of course, it was very wrong to disobey her," she added, "but—"

"My poor little Miriam! My sweet frightened darling!" cried John Ford passing his strong arm around her waist. "She was a perfect dragooness to torment you so!"

"But I belong to her," said the girl, innocently. "I have no other home but her house."

"Then belong to me, henceforward," he said, tenderly looking down into her blue, limpid eyes. "Surely, you cannot have failed to discover how deeply I love you! Hereafter you are mine!"

Miriam Green, young as she was, had often dreamed of the pathway in which love should come to her, but it had never seemed like this!

"But," she stammered, "what will your uncle say?"

"What should he say?" calmly retorted her lover. "Ford Court is mine. My uncle is only my beloved and honored guest. Besides, he loves me so genuinely that my happiness cannot but be his. And—But what is this?"

They had by this time reached the solid stone wall which divided the grounds of Ford Court from the woods, and there perched up on its height—a feminine Stylites—was Aunt Jane, with a basket in her hand, half full of the barberries which she had gathered from the huge bushes that made a scarlet-dotted screen inside, while stretched prone on the grass at the foot of the wall lay old Major Ford's monster bloodhound, Gelert. He looked around and wagged his tail slowly at the sight of John, but did not stir otherwise.

"Aunt Jane," said Miriam, "what are you doing on top of the wall, there?"

"I—I only wanted a few barberries to put in my cucumber pickles," stammered Aunt Jane ready to burst into tears. "And—and I didn't suppose there was any harm in gathering them here. I've picked pecks and pecks of barberies off them very bushes and nobody said a word. And I was just reaching up for the finest, when up comes a cross old savage and asks me what I mean by stealing fruit, and leaves me here with this horrid, snarling brute to watch me—just as if I was a tramp—while he goes for a constable! I never was so treated in my life! And, the more I try to jump off, the more the dog shows his teeth at me, and growls. He'd tear me in pieces if I stirred a foot in any direction, I do believe!"

"My Uncle Ford," whispered John to Miriam. "He is a positive monomaniac on the subject of fruit thieves? The park bristles with man-traps, and there is a dog chained under every apple-tree on the premises. But it's too bad that he should have taken your aunt for one of the village purloiners! Gelert? come here this instant sir! I assure you, Miss Green" (to Aunt Jane, who between her fatigue was on the verge of fainting,) "my uncle will be the most grieved of any one, when he learns what a misapprehension he has been laboring under. Allow me to help you down. Take care—don't spill the barberries!"

"Dear Aunt Jane!" soothed Miriam, receiving the old lady in her arms, "how frightened you must have been!"

"Oh, Miriam, forgive me!" sobbed the old lady behind her sunbonnet. "I—I didn't know how dreadful it was, or I never, never would have pulled the ladder down and left you there! It's a righteous retribution on me, that's what it is!"

"Oh, aunty, don't fret about that said Miriam, radiantly. "It's all right now. Mr. Ford came along and put up the ladder again, and—and I'm engaged to be married to him! Don't look so surprised, Aunt Jane! I know I've told it in a jerky sort of way, but it all happened as naturally as possible. Didn't it, John?"

And then followed congratulations and explanations and finally the humble apologies of Major Ford, a testy old gentleman of sixty odd years who just then arrived on the scene, accompanied by the village constable.

"I'm sure I beg a thousand pardons!" said Major Ford. 'But how was I to know? I'm a stranger in these parts; you know, and half the fruit-trees were stripped last night."

And Aunt Jane received his acknowledgement in frigid silence.

"A lady is a lady," she said to her niece, afterward," even if she has climbed on a stone-wall to gather barberries! And no one but a semi barbarian could mistake her for anything else!"

And Miriam Green was too happy in her own new born felicity to argue the questions with her aunt.

Varieties of Beggars.

Each city has its own style. The Venetian child is noted for persistence in simple asking with a whine. The Florentine has quite as great staying quantities, with a more artistic whine and more eloquence in his tone, and can show sores to better advantage than the others. The Florentine is an artistic vagabond who begs by rule. He makes no mistakes. He is got up with special reference to begging, and he is as keen at it as a Wall street broker is at his trade He looks hungry, he acts hungry, he shivers as naturally as though he was perishing with cold, and when you pass by without responding to his appeal he looks at you with reproachful eyes half full of tears, as though you had committed the unpardonablesin of which he was the victim.

The Roman beggar attempts to wheedle you out of a copper by sheer, good-natured impudence. He will commence with a whine of famine, but being looked squarely in the face will abandon the role of the starving sufferer and take on that of the buffoon. He will limp and whine for a minute and then burst out into a laugh and then turn a handspring. He follows you as long as either of the others, and is quite as annoying, but he does it in a different way.

The Roman beggar has, it must be confessed, a certain financial ability which cannot be too much admired. He never begs of an Italian, for he knows it avail him nothing, the etiquette being as it was in the old days of highway robbery in England, the highwayman never stopping one of his profession. The farthest they go in this with each other is, the beggar will come into a resturant where an Italian is taking an economical breakfast on coffee and bread, and modestly ask for what sugar he does not use in his coffee. In restaurants so many lumps of sugar are given for each portion of coffee, and it is the regular thing to put any surplus there may be in the pocket. As this is inconvenient the good-natured man will give the extra lumps to the fortunate beggar who may happen in at the right time. Two or three lumps of sugar is quite a find for these pickers-up of unconsidered trifles, and by haunting the cafes all the morning, and from 4 in the afternoon a very fair living is obtained.

Not the horse he wanted.—The Michigan man who counted the number of grains of wheat in a quart measure and then competed in a prize guess of a Detroit clothing firm for a fine horse, was disappointed when he found that the prize was only a clothes-horse. He has brought suit to recover the value of a live animal.

A CONGRESSMAN'S EARLY LIFE.

There is a member of the present Congress, representing a district in California whose early life was spiced with more dangerous experiences than fall to the lot of most mortals.

He began life by being born in Arkansas; and he possessed for a father one of those ideal squatters of that early day, whom Colonel Faulkner, in his "Arkansaw Traveler," has impressed upon the mind of the country.

Of course, when this embryo Congressman was born, he and his mother had to have the dry corner of the cabin; while the old man hunted coons, played the fiddle, and slept under the leaks.

However, if water was scarce in this corner, milk was plenty; and he thrived and soon got big enough to crawl over on the old man's side of the house, and knock blazes out of the fiddle with the fire shovel.

For this he got thrashed—and the fight became general—resulting in the father getting licked by the aroused female of that palatial residence in the ten-acre clearing of the Commonwealth of Arkansas.

This naturally made the proud spirited pioneer sulky; and hanging up the demoralized fiddle, he took down his old rifle and strode away into the deep forest for a "b'ar," or a "catermount," or something he could manage—taking with him seven of the dogs, and leaving a large, fierce one to guard the cabin and help the wife tackle any prowling enemy that might happen along.

It was a wise precaution, without which that particular Congressional District in California, mentioned above, would to-day be represented by another man.

That afternoon, about three o'clock, the future statesman crawled out at the cabin door, into the bright sunshine and laughed and crowed, while his mother was working indoors and the dog lay asleep by the ash hopper.

A panther which had approached the clearing, saw the child; and creeping nearer and nearer, it suddenly pounced upon the baby, and, seizing it by the shoulder, turned to fly.

Of course the youngster supposed it was some more than fiddle business, and he squalled lustily, startling both his mother and the dog.

True to Arkansas principles, that dog buckled in on the panther, quicker than a flash, and closed on its throat. He had fought this kind of animal before, and he knew just where to take hold.

Dropping the child, which was not hurt, the panther made a fierce fight with the dog, and was just on the point of gaining the mastery, when the woman rushed out with the gun, and, being rather used to such business, stuck the muzzle behind that panther's shoulder, pulled the trigger, and the powder did the rest.

That Arkansas family had a dead panther on their hands, but a live baby, when the grateful father returned with a lot of coons and other game, and joy and peace again reigned.

But killing panthers and other game that way, soon made life too tame in that locality; and our Congressman's parents, with all their dogs, moved up on the Missouri river, near where Kansas City now stands.

This new location afforded another luxury—catfish—which may account for the aforesaid Congressman being a little fishy in politics.

Aside from this, life did not so much differ from the old home.

They lived by that huge, treacherous Missouri river, and the old man kept a dug-out of the largest size.

It was well he had the boat—for one night they woke up and thought they could feel the cabin shake, and the water splashed against it; and two minutes afterward the father had waded out waist deep in water to where the boat was chained to a tree. Hastily returning to the cabin door, he placed his wife and four year old boy in it, and vigorously paddled for high land through the timber.

In ten minutes more the log cabin had plunged into the whirling, muddy waters, that were sweeping everything before them.

It was the same old story of the treachery of that river. Suddenly rising, it had cut its way through, back of the cabin, and, undermining the soil, had swept the entire clearing away, with hundreds of acres of heavy timber A narrow escape for the gentleman from California.

Homeless, and with only three dogs for a fresh start in life, our restless pioneer struck out for the Far West, and eventually drove down in the mountain regions, near the headquarters of the Arkansas river.

It was beautiful summer when he stopped and built his cabin; it was beautiful white winter when he turned his back on it, with his little five year old boy in his arms, and wintered in a cave.

This was the saddest episode of all his rugged life. The father had gone hunting up on the mountain side, where he could look down and see his little cabin, nicely sheltered in a nook under the cliff. Silently the snow began to fall, hard and fine as sand, and so fast and thick that it shut out every view, and forced the hunter to take refuge in a cave, which he had previously found and prepared for emergencies.

Here the continual fall of snow forced him to remain for two days, in dread suspense as to the fate of his wife and child.

On the third day he found the storm abated, but saw to his horror that the snow had been blown from the mountain, and had drifted in the valley, until no vestige of his cabin could be seen above its white surface.

As the mountain sides were almost bare of snow, he hastily descended and began the search for his little home.

At last he saw an opening in the snow, which was the chimney-top of the cabin. Through it he quickly descended, and saw a sight that froze his heart. The poor heroine of that lone cottage, the wife and mother, had stripped the bed and herself of clothing to save the life of her child; and there lay the little fellow, all bundled up in a ball of clothing, asleep; while on the bed lay the mother—asleep, too—the sleep that knows no waking.

The father dug a grave beneath the dirt floor of the cabin, buried his wife and, taking the boy, went back to the cave, where there was plenty of fuel and food, and remained until spring.

When the weather once more grew warm, he wandered away, with the restless spirit of the pioneer.

Then the gold fever struck him, and he rushed to California; and then the camp fever struck him, and he passed in his checks—leaving an orphan who has fought his way through to Congress.

The Lime-Kiln Club.

(Detroit Free Press.)

"I will now remark to dis club," said Brother Gardner, as he opened the meeting, "dat de Hon. Jawback Johnson, of Opelika, has arrove. He reached Detroit two days ago on de roof of a freight car, an' in a somewhat carniverous condition, an' as he knocked on de doah of my cabin at midnight I looked frew de winder an' put on a pa'r o' brass knuckles afore I dared step out an' ax his name an' bizness. I has filled him up wid meat an' tater, lent him a clean shirt dat buttons behind an' a suit of cloze, an' I would furder remark dat he 'pears to be a pusson of transparent intelligence an' resplendid polish. Let us listen to him wid anxus interest and careless observashun."

The committee on reception then donned their white gloves and claw-hammer coats and disappeared in search of the stranger. They found him shivering with stage-fright in the ante-room, and it was only after Give-adam Jones had threatened to loosen the top of his head that he consented to enter the hall. Once in he braced up, however, and after reaching the platform and swallowing three peppermint drops and a glass of water he seemed to recover his native confidence and to forget that one end of his collar was loose and sawing away at his chin.

His dissertation, which lasted nearly an hour, began by showing the advantages of truth, then after wrestling with the evils of ambition, the necessity of economy, he struggled with the disagreeable subject of industry, causing many a scowl on the faces of his auditors, and concluded as follows:

"I thank you with consummate airnestness for de skillful manner in which you have evaded your attention to my cubersome remarks, an' I hope dat de seed thus sown on stony ground may sprout up an' yield seventy-five bushels to de acre.

When the speaker had been escorted from the hall Brother Gardner said:

"De man who dares to pint out our faults am a friend, an' let us receive his criticisms as such. If I should diskiver dat any of you war' lyin' in wait inde alley to slug the Hon. Jawback Johnson as a reward of merit it am very probable dat de orator wouldn't be de only man hurt. We will now abdicate."

A rolling stone gathers no moss, but a rolling-pin in the right hands will garner considerable hair.

HUMOROUS.

A colored individual who went down on the slippery flags at the corner of Woodward auenue and Congress street scrambled up and backed out into the street and took a long look towards the roof of the nearest building. "You fell from that third-story window!" remorked a pedestrian who had witnessed the tumble. "Boss, I believes yer!" was the prompt reply; "but what puzzles me am de queshun of how I got up dar an' why I was leanin' out ob de winder!"—Detroit Free Press.

She Renewed.

One of the Detroit sanitary police was the other day wandering over a box-full of dead cats in an alley off Seventh street, when he heard oaths and yells and the sounds of conflict in a house near by. As he entered the yard, a man and a woman burst open the side door and rolled down the steps on a heap, kicking and clawing with right good will. "What's the trouble here?" asked the officer, as he pulled them apart.

"There, I'm glad you happened along!" exclaimed the man, as he jumped up. "The old woman and me have had a despute for the last fifteen years as to when Christopher Columbus discovered America. Maybe you know."

"It was in 1492," replied the officer.

"Just what I said—just the date I had!" cried the husband, as he danced around. "Now then, old woman, will you give up?"

"Never!"

"You won't?"

"Not an inch! I said 1490, and I had your neck across the edge of the step! We agreed not to bite or scratch and I prefer to renew the conflict rather than take a stranger's figures! come in the house!"

The officer waited at the gate until he heard two chairs smashed down and a dozen yells, and then he resumed his rounds with a growing conviction that Columbus would ultimately be two years ahead in that house.

An Ornament to the Profession.

A student applied the other day to one of the district courts for admission to practice. An examination committee of one was appointed by the Judge to ascertain his qualifications. The examination began with:

"Do you smoke, sir?"

"I do, sir!"

"Have you a spare cigar?"

"Yes."

"Now sir, what is the first duty of a lawyer?"

"To collect fees."

"Right. What is the second?"

"To increase the number of his clients."

"When does your position toward your client change?"

"When making a bill of costs."

"Explain."

"We are then antagonistic. I assume the character of plaintiff and he becomes the defendant."

"A suit decided, how do you stand with the lawyer conducting the other side?"

"Cheek by jowl."

"Enough, sir. you promise to become an ornament to your profession, and I wish you success, Now are you aware of the duty you owe me?"

"Perfectly."

"Describe it."

"It is to invite you to drink."

"But suppose I decline?"

Candidate scratches his head.

"There is no instance of the kind on record in the books."

"You are right; and the confidence with which you make the assertion shows you have read the law attentively. Let's take a drink, and I'll sign your certificate."

How Alligators Eat.

An alligator's throat is an animated sewer. Everything which lodges in his open mouth goes down. He is a lazy dog, and, instead of hunting for something to eat, he lets his vituals hunt for him. That is, he lies with his great mouth open, apparently dead, like the 'possum. Soon a big bug crawls into it, then a fly, then several gnats, and a colony of mosquitoes. The alligator don't close his mouth yet. He is waiting for a whole drove of things. He does his eating by wholesale. A little lizard will cool himself under the shadow of the upper jaw. Then a few frogs will hop up to catch the mosquitoes. Then more mosquitoes and gnats light on the frogs. Finally a whole village of insects and reptiles settle down for an afternoon picnic. Then all at once there is an earthquake. The big jaw falls, the alligator slyly blinks one eye, gulps down the entire menagerie, and opens his great front door again for more visitors.

P. GRAY MEEK, Chairman

THE STATE CONVENTION.

From the Patriot, April, 9th.

ALLENTOWN, April 8.—By every train to-night crowds come from all quarters until the hotels and boarding houses are crowded and most of the private houses are entertaining visitors. At noon Mr. Randall arrived from Philadelphia. He was entertained at the residence of Col. W. H. Sowden, where, during the day, there was a constant stream of visitors paying their compliments to the now recognized favorite son.

It will be RANDALL for candidate for President.

THE Clinton county democratic committee met at Lock Haven on Wednesday, April 2nd and decided on June 4th to hold the county convention. Judge W. W. Rankin, James Nickson and C. R. Noyes are the uninstructed delegates to the state convention.

THE house of representatives passed a bill on April 1st, providing that the trade dollars shall be redeemed at their face value. It is expected that the senate will give its assenting voice to the final passage of the bill.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 7th. 1884.

As it now stands the exonerating report of the special committee is a pretty mess for both Keifer and Boynton, and a very touching commingling of compliment and equivocation which the committee allowed itself to indulge in. Boynton is exonerated from the charge made against him by Keifer, because Keifer's testimony does not come up to the committee's standard of legal preponderance, although his evidence was confirmed by two witnesses. Boynton being the defendant, is entitled to the benefit of the doubt which the committee entertained that the whole brood of the witnesses on both sides were not lying at each other straight from the shoulder throughout. The committee nevertheless declares that both of the gentlemen are of unblemished character, so far as the committee is able to judge from the testimony, and the powerful effort made by each to prove the other a liar, the committee hopes, may not again find imitators in the Republican ranks. It may here be said that Boynton's denial about the McGarrahan claim business is very like the pleading of the great sheridan in the borrowed kettle case, in that he never knew McGarrahan, and if he did it was not corruptly, and if corruptly, there was no malice prepense about it.

Those who believe that the public domain should remain in the actual possession of Government, to be distributed to actual settlers instead of going into the hands of speculators and land-pillagers, will be pleased to learn that the Government is evincing a determination to enforce what law there is in protecting itself against the stupendous frauds that have become bold to actual defiance. The fencing in of millions upon millions of acres of the public lands by herdsmen, the frauds practiced upon the Government in the occupation of other millions of acres of land under the homestead and preemption laws, through forged and perjured affidavits, and the appropriation of immense bodies of timber land belonging to the reservations, have been going on for years in the face of the efforts that have been put forth by the Government to restrain them, which from the inadequacy of the appropriations for special agents, have thus far proved futile. The Interior Department, however, has found sufficient authority to take this particular bull by the horns and, without respect to persons, the special agents have received their instructions to ferret out every instance of fraud and follow it up to the conviction and punishment of the offender. It transpires that some of the men involved in the fencing in of public domain are those who affect to stand well with the Government, and therefore presume themselves exempt from legal interference, but Secretary Teller's instructions are to the effect that the whole system shall be wiped out root and branch, and the cases now pending before the United States courts in the States and Territories show that the agents have already entered upon the work.

PHONO.

A Drummer Attacked by Highwaymen.

SELINSGROVE, April 5.—This afternoon as Willis Hess, a commercial traveler, was crossing the ridge between New Berlin and Winfield on his way to Northumberland and while passing through a small strip of woods, two tramps rushed from behind a cluster of bushes and seized the horse by the bridle and demanding that Mr. Hess should halt. After stopping the horse one remained at the horse's head while the other drew a knife, saying: "I'll end you if you dont shell out your dust," and was in the act of climbing into the buggy, when Mr. Hess drew a revolver and fired two shots at him. By this time the tramp who held the horse had fled in the woods, leaving his companion to fight his way out. Mr. Hess plied the whip on his horse and made his escape. He says he is not sure whether any of the shots fired took effect, but immediately after the second shot his assailant fell to the ground.

It has been stated, and some sportsmen will, no doubt, be sorry to hear it, that a fishing-pole has been invented that registers every fish caught. This will do away with all fish stories, inasmuch as the augler with a pole that dosen't register will always be regarded with suspicion.

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, APRIL 10TH, 1884.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

—Another mud snow.

—Easter next Sunday.

—Good Friday to-morrow.

—The boss oranges at H. H. Tomlinsons.

—The prospects now are for a white Easter.

—The band thinks of getting a new E flat cornet.

—Several sidewalks in town would stand repairing.

—Hen houses receive thorough searches this week.

—New chain pumps received at the Hardware this week.

—Plenty of eggs is what the little folks look for this week.

—Mr. John C. Ray, from Lewisburg was in town on Tuesday.

—We noticed the pleasant phiz of Ellis Hosterman in town last week.

—Our neighbor, W. N. Auman built a fence around his property this week.

—Mrs. Geo. W. Stover's condition does not indicate much improvement.

—A runaway horse on Main street created quite a sensation on Tuesday.

—Mr. J. B. Rute, of Salona, favored our office with a call last week. Come back!

—On Friday evening there will be a merchant's party at H. H. Tomlinson's store.

—On Tuesday Mr. E. Bartholemew flitted into his new house on Penn Street.

—Mr. Louis Pfeninger from Lewisburg spent a few days in town last week.

—A few houses in town are still unoccupied. Something new for Millheim.

—Bring in your job work—we are prepared to do it quick, cheap and in good taste.

—The treasurer's sale and other new advertisements are crowding our local space this week.

—B. B. Stover, of Haines township, called on us last week. Always glad to see our patrons.

—Next Monday evening the Building & Loan Association will have its regular monthly meeting.

—The report of the State College reached us to late for publication. Will go in type next week.

—Druggist Eisenhuth reports a rapidly growing demand for McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders.

—Mrs. Jonathan Royer from Tusseyville was here over Sunday on a visit to her sister, Mrs. H. H. Weiser.

—Mrs. Meek and Mrs. Hosterman, two ladies from Altoona, were visitors at Dr. J. F. Harter's last week.

—In addition to his meat market John Miller has of the best made flour in sacks for sale. Give him a call.

—We are reliably informed that some of our Texacans have little wars of their own---nobody killed so far.

—Mrs. John Toner, of Eagleville, spent several days in town visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Musser.

—Mr. D. C. Keller, our efficient county treasurer, advertises his sale of unseated lands in this week's JOURNAL.

—For want of space B. Harris' large advertisement was crowded out this week. Will be inserted in our next issue.

FOR SALE.—About one thousand feet of Dry Linn Boards. Inquire at this office. W. tf.

—From the Bellefonte Watchman: The electric light, Edison system, has been put into the Court House offices and hall.

—Mrs. A. J. Grove from Centre Hall, whe was visiting her parents for the past two weeks has again returned to her home.

—Horace Hering, who has been spending the winter months at his father's home at Penn Hall, returned to the West.

—Messrs. Jonathan & A. J. Harter received three large boxes of new harnesses yesterday. They are ready for business now.

—D. I. Brown, our tinner, sports a new sign in front of his shop. J. W. Lose painted it and, as usual made a good job of it.

—Some remarkable cures in this vicinity of long continued and obstinate deases are atributed to McDonald's Blood Purifier.

—Mr. W. T. Auman left on Saturday afternoon for Philadelphia where he intends to look up a situation for himself. Wish him success.

—Jacob Dutweiler and family left on Tuesday morning for their western home, Jewel City, Kansas. May they be successful in the new country.

—We publish the sale notice of Henry Keen, trustee of John Keen's estate, dec'd. A valuable farm and building lot will be sold on the 24th of April.

—Mr. Wm Miller, who has been in the mercantile business at Pleasant Gap, has moved to Millheim and occupies a part of Dr. Harter's house on Main Street.

—John Page, who had been in Sugar Valley the last few years, has come back to this neighborhood and resides with Mr. Baily, on whose farm he works as hired man.

—To reduce expenses the number of professors at the State College has been cut down from sixteen to fourteen and the salaries from $20,000 to $16,700 per year.

—Main street was lined with conveyances on Saturday and crowds of people were moving to and fro. Weiser's sale was well attended and his goods sold at fair prices.

—Mr. Samuel Van Ormer, the venerable father of Mr. James N. Van Ormer, of Bellefonte, died at McVeytown, Mifflin county on the 21st ult., in his eighty third year.

—J. W. Adams and Adam Kreamer, two of our Millheim boys are working at the painter's trade at Aurora, Ill. They make their home with Mr. Daniel Harter, at that place.

—Some papers already talk of organ grinders. Why it was cold enough last week to freeze all the music they grind out before it reached the ears of listening young America.

—The Lutherans have ordered new mucic books for their Sunday School, expecting them by Friday. The name of the book is "Spiritual Songs," one of the bost books published.

—Thos. Hockman runs a delivery wagon for the brick mill, drives a good horse and flourishes chiming bells sounding loudly in the streets and announcing that the mill wagon is on the road.

—We understand that the borough council will agitate the street lamp question in one of its meetings this summer. We hope they will decide definitively on the procurement of lamps.

—On Tuesday Mr. L. B. Stover left for his western home, Lincoln Centre, Kansas, after a prolonged visit to his friends and relations in this valley. He subscribed for the JOURNAL before he left. A wise plan.

—Mr. J. W. Snook is still more improving his premises on Pens street by weather-boarding his extensive outbuildings. We presume several coats of paint will be applied as soon as the weather permits.

—Landlord Frain informs us that Messrs. J. M. McClellan and Feiring, of Armstrong county, will come to Millheim end of this week with 10 or 12 head of fine horses which they will offer for sale at reasonable prices.

—Mr. Joseph Shafer, of Nittany Hall, spent several days in town last week visiting his daughter, Mrs. E. Bartholomew. He gave the JOURNAL a call on Wednesday afternoon and witnessed the process of rolling out the paper.

—Cal Weaver popped into the JOURNAL office the other day on his way to the station, haying just time enough to subscribe and pay for the JOURNAL before catching the train for Shamokin, Pa., his future place of residence. Wish you success, Cal.

—Mr. F. P. Barker's confectionery store at Coburn is said to have a good sum of custom. He keeps a splendid lot of oranges and lemons, sells everything at reasonable figures and is a pleasant and obliging merchant. Good reasons for a thriving business.

—Fourteen large volumes of congressional records, containing all the proceedings of the 47th congress have been sent to this office through Ex-Gov. Curtin, for which we are under many obligations to him. They are well-bound and valuable books.

—Several premises on Penn street received their spring cleaning this week. The time is here that this good example ought to be followed by everybody, —An earnest application of the rake and broom makes a wonderful change for the better in the looks of our yards.

—Millheim Lodge of the I. O. O. F. recently elected the following officers for the ensuing term: N. G., E. W. Mauck; V. G., T. B. Jamison; Ass. Secretary, David Burrel; Treasurer, John Long; Secretary, C. W. Hartman. They were installed last Saturday eyening.

—The following persons left Millheim on Tuesday's morning train for Bridgewater, Dakota: H. H. Weiser, E. Brumgard, E. Frank, H. K. Luse and Wilson Bollinger and wife. The band was out on Monday night to give the western emigrants a farewell serenade.

—Our young and newly-married jeweler, Mr. P. H. Musser & lady, started housekeeping last week, having moved into Mrs. Wm Miller's house on North street. Being a small couple, they can have things on a small scale—which is an advantage in many respects. Hope he and his young wife will spend many happy days in their home.

MUSIC SCHOOL.—The 24th session of the Musical College at Freeburgh, Pa. will begin on Tuesday morning, April 29th, and will continue six weeks. For circular address

F. C. MOYER,
Musical Director.

—Mr. J. C. Harper in company with Mr. R. M. Magee, both of Bellefonte, were in town last week to pay a visit to Mrs. G. W. Stover, who is a sister of the former and a niece of the latter gentleman. Both honored the JOURNAL with a friendly call. Mr. Harper expects to be a candidate for Prothonotary.

—On the 1st of April last Mr. P. S. Meyer, who is an experienced miller, took charge of the Pine Creek Mill, Motz & Snook, proprietors. We can assure our readers that he will always be prepared to supply their wants in the line of flour, feed, etc. He makes it a special point to furnish the best article and it will therefore be to your advantage to give him a call.

—J. R. Smith & Co's new advertisement appears in another column of this week's JOURNAL. Their furniture establishment at Milton is one of the largest in Central Pennsylvania and always carries a very large and fine stock. We advise our readers who may visit Milton to call at their store on Front street.

—A man by the name of Barner very suddenly died in Sugar Valley. He and his wife had been getting ready to take a trip to Nittany Valley. The lady had some business in the cellar and coming back to the room, told her husband that she was ready to leave. When she received no answer she discovered that he had died suddenly in his chair.

—Simon Bro's. and Simon & Sons, the live clothiers and grocers of Lock Haven call the attention of the public to the fact that they are still doing a thriving business at their stores, offering the best goods at the best bargains and thereby always pleasing their customers. They will move into their new rooms in a shore time.

—Our musical association is growing from week to week and so is the interest which the members take in the work. Prof. H. J. Kurzenknabe, its excellent conductor meets with splendid success in his efforts to educate the vocal talents represented in the society and we look with pleasure for a first-class entertainment in about 6 weeks The next meeting will be in the M. E. Church, when a lot of new music wil be on hand.

AARONSBURG ACADEMY.—The undersigned will open a select school at Aaronsburg on the 14th inst., and continue twenty weeks, with a vacation during harvest.

Tuition for a term of ten weeks; primary studies $3; advanced $6; languages $2 extra.

The patronage of the community is respectfully solicited.

U. W. D. YEARICK.

—The president of our town council at their meeting on Monday evening appointed the following standing committees for the year: Finance: John Stoner, E. C. Campbell, J. H. Maize. Streets & Alleys: W. R. Henney, John Stoner, F. F. Wetzel. Nuisance: F. F. Wetzel, J. H. Maize, E. C. Campbell. Mr. A. Walter was elected treasurer for the borough funds---a wise selection. High Constable Abs Harter was appointed Street Commissioner.

—The undersigned hereby notifies his friends and patrons that he has removed his dental office to the eastern part of Main street, opposite the M. E. church, where he is prepared to accommodate all persons wishing any work done in his line. Thanking the public for their past patronage he respectfully requests a continuance of the same in his new quarters.

J. F. HARTER,
Dentist.

—I caught a severe cold, and remembering you told me to use "Downs' Elixir," I bought a bottle and in less than three days my cough and sore throat had vanished! It's good. PUBLISHER
New Markel, N. H., Advertiser.

Please send me six bottles Dr. Baxter's Mandrake Bitters. I never used a medicine that did me so much good as this.

IRA TAYLOR, Rolland, Mich.

Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment is the best family liniment made. Sold by H. H. Tomlinson, Millheim, Pa.

Communicated.

—Mr. Simon Rote of Aaronsburg departed this life on the 1st inst, having arrived at the age of 67 years, 5 months and 12 days.

On the 3rd of March, he was stricken with paralysis whilst on the mountain, in company with a small boy, chopping wood. For some time he lay in the snow exposed to the cold, in a helpless condition. As soon as help could reach him he was brought to his home and tenderly cared for by his family and sympathizing friends. He had lost his speech and the use of his right limbs. From the start his condition seemed to be hopeless. He gradually grew weaker until the day of his peaceful death. During all the time of his affliction, except at intervals near the close of his life, he remained perfectly rational. He fully realized his condition and patiently awaited the end. At times he suffered intense pain in the paralyzed parts, but he bore it all without a murmer, and constantly gave evidence of a triumphant faith in Christ. A peaceful trust in God possessed his soul.

The deceased was a good, peace-abiding citizen, a loving husband and kind father. He possessed a cheerful, happy disposition. When first he became a citizen of this valley, as a young man, he followed the trade of blacksmith at Woodward, and later in life, for many years, at Aaronsburg. Along with his trade he was a popular auctioneer, and in this capacity his services were always in great demand, so much so, that the neccessary exertion wrought in him an injury that followed him through life. He was a consistent member of the Reformed church at Aaronsburg for the period of 43 years. During a large part of this time he served his Master in the office of Deacon. He possessed peculiar fitness for the duties of this office. In it he was a willing and faithful servant of the church. He will be greatly missed in the congregation as one of its strong, active members. He has gone to his reward!

The funeral services on 4th inst, were attended by a large concourse of people. The pastor, who was assisted by the Rev. John Tomlinson, preached on Nehemiah 7:2, "He was a faithful man, and feared God above many."

Z. A. Y.

SPRING MILLS ITEMS.

New goods daily at I. J. Grenoble's.

Rev. Sarvis preached a very able sermon to a large congregation in the M. E. church on Sabbath evening.

Mr. Geo. Korman is improving in health, but not able to leave his bed.

Sol Snyder has opened up his shop in Hubler's old stand. He is a good blacksmith and ought to be patronized.

That boss of contractors, John Coldren has the contract to build the R.R. bridge across Sinking Creek above the station. Messrs. Vandyke & Wilson know their man, as he has contracted some five or six bridges for them before.

On last Sabbath the M. E. Sunday school elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Charles Miller, Superintendent; Geo. P. Ream, Ass. Supt; W. H. Bartholemew, Secretary; J. I. Condo, Ass. Sec., J. B. Foster, Librarian; A. Kennedy, Ass. Librarian: Dayid Burrell, Treasurer; G. P. Ream, Chorister; J. M. Alters, Ass. Chorister. The average attendance for last year was 88, which was exceedingly good.

BROAD AXE.

WOODWARD CHIPS.

The Woodward people can boast of sawdust sidewalks. Good job, boys.

There was a surprise party at Dr. Ard's on Tuesday evening to celebrate his flitting. Eight couples were present and Mrs. Ard got up a very nice supper for them. All seemed to enjoy themselves.

Rev. Fox preached here on Sunday evening for the first time, delivering an able sermon. Our folks are very much pleased with him.

J. C. Motz is going to build a new dam at the grist mill. It needed repairing this good while.

News are scarce this week—more anon.

Madisonburg Splinters.

Our young lady friend, Miss Ida Ocker left for Lock Haven last week and intends to stay all summer.

Fairy Shafer has made a quilt containing 4918 patches. Fairy has quilted a diamond in every patch. It is a beauty.

Ed Shafer has an attack of homesickness.

We hear of a double-wedding which is to take place at Madisonburg in the near future.

Our schools are now closed, but a summer school will be started by Lewis Wolfe in a few weeks. ANON.

George's Valley Items.

Our people are getting tired of bad weather and bad roads.

The carpenters are at work on P. H. Harshbaeger's new house. It will be a fine building.

The masons are building the wall for Samuel Harter's new residence.

James Hannah retired from farming and moved into his new house.

Mesrrs. Grove and Wolf are busy filling the bill for the new railroad bridge across Sinking Creek.

J. Weaver has moved to our valley.

Several of our young men went West within the last few weeks.

Miscellaneous.

A Vermont farmer has a hen 39 years old. An old hen.

There are 3754 post offices in the state of Pennsylvania.

The Phila. post office is one-half larger than New York's.

Leah Hector, colored inmate Montgomery Co. almshouse, is 114 years old.

Five thousand dollars' worth of fancy pigeons were recently destroyed by fire at Melrose, Mass.

It is a curious fact that wasps' nests often take fire, as is supposed, by the chemical action of the wax upon the material of which the nest is composed. Many of the fires of unknown origin in haystacks and farm buildings may thus be accounted for.

A Lady Deputy Sheriff.

The youngest daughter of a Franklin county sheriff, Miss Ada Kurtz, was recently sworn in as deputy sheriff of Franklin county. Her first work was the serving of some writs in Greencastle which, it is said, she did as well as a man. She passed through Harrisburg the other week, with a handcuffed prisoner for the Eastern penitentiary.

Farms divided by county lines shall hereafter be assessed in the county wherein the mansion house is located.

An exchange says, "a superstitious subscriber who found a spider in a copy of his paper writes to know if we consider it a bad omen. Nothing of the kind. The spider was merely looking over the columns of the paper to see what merchant was not advertising, so that he could spin his web across the store door and be free from disturbance."

DIED.

On the 1st inst, at Aaronsburg, Mr. Simon Rote, aged 67 years, 5 months and 12 days.

Too Much Sugar.

A mother often complains that her child is troubled greatly with a sour stomach, but this case is no longer mysterious when the mother, to quiet the little one, so that she can continue the account of the case, sets down before her a little dish of sugar, from which the child may help itself. Most mothers would give candy or cookie instead, though some feed them lumps of sugar from the bowl, believing that the children need sugar, and might better have it in that form than any other. In any case of this kind there is a very frequent call for water. Do you know how vinegar is made? You can get plenty of it by simply mixing sugar or molasses with water and keeping it warm. A sour taste in the mouth after eating some thing sweet is a very common occurence. It is the acid caused by the fermentation of the sugar left in the mouth with the saliva that causes the decay of children's teeth—this and the lack of bone-forming material in the daily food. Vinegar 'eats' lime, as one can tell by leaving an egg in vinegar. Bits of sugar or candy left to ferment among the teeth destroy their enamel, as well as do pickles. The child that is fed on sweet, naturally craves pickles as an antidote, but well fed children are contented with plain, nourishing food, if properly prepared and sufficiently varied. Many imagine that all children should have free access to both sugar and pickles in order to supply what they suppose to be natural cravings, and to prevent thefts of sugar from the family bowl. A mistaken policy.

It Overcame Him.

Before the Hale & Nocross fight came on in San Francisco—this is tradition' almost—there arrived in town a dissipated miner who had worked in the mine. He was pretty badly down, apparently, but he went into a broker's office, and, after being told to get out as a tramp he said he thought a good deal of Hale & Nocross and wanted to invest a trifling sum in it. Two feet, at $175 were bought for him, and he gave the certificates to the broker, saying that he was going down to Mexico prospecting, and he would like to leave it behind to be dealt with as the broker saw fit. He was not heard of for months. Hale & Nocross went up to $12,000 a foot. One morning the broker found the dilapidated miner on his door step when he came down to business.

The miner rose and said:

"Well, I'm here. I thought I'd come and see you. I suppose there ain't nothing left of that Hale and Nocross. I guess you must 'a sold it out; but I'm down, an' I ain't got a cent. Maybe you'd lend me four bits to get a bit of breakfast?"

The broker looked at him and gave him five dollars to go and get a bath and breakfast, and presently he returned.

"Sit down and wait a minute. I'll make up your account presently. He left the dilapidated man on the edge of a chair. He come back with a check and sent his clerk down to the bank. The clerk rteurned with a big bag of gold. The poor devil watched the proceedings with miserable indifference. The gold was stacked upon the counter.

"Look here. I've sold your two feet of Hale & Nocross for $25,000, and here's your money."

The miner fell on the floor and cried like a baby. He could not read or write, and had no idea what the market was. He sent a draft of $2000 to his mother. The broker bought for him $30,000 of registered bonds, and gave him $2400 in coin, which he spent in three days. Two bunko men brought him in drunk and tried to get his bonds but the broker drove them out, and when the man got sober he came and had the bonds sewed into his clothes and was dispatched East. He has never been heard of since.

REBUKED.

A great many communities are, no doubt, afflicted with the gaddling newsmonger, whose chief recreation is to circulate tattle and gossip, and who generally mixes a good deal of falsehood with mere grain of truth, and doles it out as something positive and to be relied on. One of this tribe called on a New York banker the other day, and got to speaking about a competitor of his.

"Do you know," said the garrulous visitor, "how much——lost by the failure of——"

"How much was it?" inquired the banker.

"Why, $275,000!"

"Can that be possible? are you sure?"

"Oh, yes, I know it."

"Why, I hadn't supposed it was anything like so large a sum as that. How did you find it out?"

"Ah! that I can't tell you, but it is so; I got the facts; you can rely upon them, I understand what I am about every time, you can bet."

"Well, now, Mr.——you say you know all about this; just let me tell you the facts.——and I were fellow creditors in that case. We employed the same lawyer, and made common cause, pooling our claims. It has been all finished up, the money paid and the accounts closed, and——loses less than $25,000. Don't you think you could find more reputable business than running about the street with such yarns as this? It happens, fortunately, that——is so strong that no great harm can come of your telling lies about him, but there are men whom such a story as you are circulating might injure seriously."

The poor fellow made all the effort he could to wriggle out of the scrape without confessing himself a liar, but when he left, which he did as soon as he could get away, he was conscious that he had been convinced on the evidence without any confession. There are a great many tramps of this genus roaming about; they wear nice clothes, and don't look particularly vicious, but their tongues are venomous, and it is the duty of every body who meets them to give them a good talking to.

DELAWARE RIVER CHEMICAL WORKS,
BAUGH & SONS,
Philadelphia, Feb. 1, 1884.

To Farmers of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—For over twenty-eight years we have manufactured Raw-Bone Phosphates, and our brands have become household words in nearly every section of the country. In many communities the demand for them has increased, while in others the sales have declined, on account of the preference for lower-priced goods. Six years ago, finding that the demand for goods of lower cost had become almost universal, and having peculiar advantages of raw materials and manufacturing facilities, we determined to meet this demand, and introduced a TWENTY-FIVE DOLLAR PHOSPHATE, made by a NEW PROCESS EXCLUSIVELY OUR OWN. The quickness with which this Phosphate sprang into use among intelligent farmers will be shown by the following statement:

Of the $25 Phosphate there were sold

During	1879,	1,287	Tons.
"	1880,	3,957	"
"	1881,	5,147	"
"	1882,	8,288	"
"	1883,	10,128	"

The reports of the action of the $25 Phosphate have been satisfactory in every case from a wide inquiry. We want to be informed upon this point very plainly, as it is our interest to know if the article continues to produce good results. We will thank any farmer, having used the $25 Phosphate with disappointing results, to let us hear from him with full facts.

Yours truly,
BAUGH & SONS.

is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. DR. JOHN BULL'S

Smith's Tonic Syrup

FOR THE CURE OF

FEVER and AGUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.

DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.
